Getting started connecting accounts

Connecting accounts from other financial institutions helps to create a more holistic view of your financial picture.

• NOTE: You do not need to connect your TCA by E*TRADE accounts; those will automatically connect.

How to maintain a connected account

After connecting your outside accounts, you will see your information flowing through from your financial institution. But what if you need to update your password for a connected account, or remove a connected account that you no longer need to see on your All Accounts Overview page?

To manually sync an account.

Maintenance account details

You can also use the sliding tool to disable an account. This will keep the account linked, but the account will not appear within the "All Accounts" view.

To update the account name or account type, click on the pencil icon.

We maintain risk controls to protect your data

As a part of our commitment to information and network security, CompleteView utilizes encryptions for data transmissions and endpoint authentication with API access tokens to help keep account information confidential and secure.

 How is data protected? After entering log on information from a financial institution, CompleteView uses that information to aggregate accounts, and then stores it securely. The data is stored on servers in a secure location that includes physical security, fire protection, and electronic shielding. Accessing the physical servers requires several levels of authentication, including biometrics, and security personnel monitor the system around the clock.

• Where does my data go and how does it get there? Data from CompleteView is transmitted only to the websites and/or mobile applications where you have permitted access. All transmissions are encrypted.

For more information or to begin using CompleteView, please contact your financial advisor.
